Opposes Acceptance of the Rockefeller Gift.

QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE

HIGHER ETHICAL STANDARDS DEMANDED.

Boston, April 8.—Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong of New York, president of the American Institute of Social Science, has joined in the protest of Congregational ministers against the acceptance of the Rockefeller gift to the American board. In a communication to the committee of the protesting clergymen, Dr. Strong says:

"We are told by those who approve the acceptance of the gift that it is not the business of a church, charitable organization or missionary society to sit in judgment on the character of the contributions to its work. This simply begs the real question at issue. Can a church or society thus wash its hands of all responsibility touching all gifts which may come to its treasury without violating fundamental principles of ethics?"

Principle Remains the Same.

"A man may become possessed of money to which he has no moral right in a great variety of ways, but whatever the method the fundamental ethical principle remains the same, namely, that a man has no right to give that which is not his, and no one has a right to receive a gift which the donor has no right to give. This ethical principle, which is beyond all possible question, is precisely applicable to the case in hand, and the prudential committee cannot vacate it by refusing to recognize it."

"It is charged by many that Mr. Rockefeller has acquired a large proportion of his wealth by illegitimate methods and that to such ill-gotten gains he has no moral right (legal rights do not enter into the discussion)."

No Right to Accept Gift.

"Multitudes believe that undupedated facts raise a reasonable doubt, to say the least, whether Mr. Rockefeller has a moral right to the money which he gives away. It follows, therefore, that the board has no right to accept his gift until that reasonable doubt is removed."

"I would not say that the prudential committee has a right to accept this principle. It has no right to reject it. The acceptance of ethical principles is not optional."

"For more than twenty years we have deplored the fact that workingmen as a class refuse to attend church. When asked why, the habitual reply is that the churches belong to the capitalist class which is not dealing justly by labor. When men who have kept back the laborers' hire contribute largely to the religious objects and their gifts are accepted, workingmen believe that the church condones injustice and are embittered toward her."

"The conscience of the church touching wealth profoundly needs quickening. The new conditions of society demand higher ethical standards. This is a most favorable time to respond to the appeal."
